BAYSHORE WILL START WORK ON SCHOOL BUILDING JACKS SERVICE STATION OPENS NEW CLUB ROOMS

Plumbing Fixtures Will Be Installed And Further Improvements Planned

Bids will be called for this week for the installation of all new plumbing fixtures in the Bayshore school. All modern fixtures of the very highest class will be installed and the walls and floors of the two rooms thoroughly renovated. New shades throughout will also be installed this week.

Construction on the auditorium will begin as soon as final word is received from P. W. A. offices in Washington, D. C., as to the granting of an application for grant money. According to letters received from the Federal headquarters, Bayshore school improvements have received a very favorable report and members of the board feel very confident that the grant money will be forthcoming in the near future.

The plumbing project had been a part of the original plans, but, owing to the dire necessity for the improvements, board members felt it urgent to remove this part of the project from the general plans and bear the entire expense for the district.

18 HURT WHEN TRAIN DERAILS

Eighteen persons were injured and more than 100 others badly shaken recently when two diners and four Pullman coaches of a main line train jumped the tracks 70 miles north of Klamath Falls, Ore. Due to lack of communication facilities in the rugged Oregon Cascade country, names of the injured could not be learned. Map shows where the accident happened high in the mountains.

Traffic Safety Trophy Awarded

Thirteen counties of California, with San Diego leading the list, showed a reduction of 72 traffic deaths on rural roads in 1936 as compared with 1935, according to figures made public here today by the State Department of Motor Vehicles.

As a result, San Diego County will receive the traffic safety trophy awarded by the California State Chamber of Commerce.

San Diego County's death total decreased 18 over 1935. In that year they totaled 62. In 1936 the total was 44.

Other counties having a decrease in deaths are Fresno, Monterey, Sonoma, Sutter, Contra Costa, Humboldt, Yolo, Ventura, Mono, Santa Clara, Shasta and Yuba Counties.

SURPRISE PARTY IS GIVEN A. B. MITCHELL

A big surprise birthday party was given A. B. Mitchell last Saturday night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Stella Arthurs, 347 Alvarado street in Brisbane. A fine time was had by each and every one of the 47 friends that attended.

Mr. Mitchell started his own party with an old time clog dance. Plenty of fine music, singing, refreshments and entertainment were enjoyed. The 77-year old A. B. Mitchell wants to extend his thanks to the friends that helped him enjoy his birthday. Here's hoping he will have many more.

Truck Drivers Given Every Consideration For Comfort In New Building

Jack's Service Station, located on the highway at Brisbane, has something quite new and unique to offer weary truck drivers. This is in the form of a club room with every needed facility at their disposal.

It is a large room equipped with card tables, easy chairs, cots, hot and cold showers, private toilets, writing desks and a lunch room in connection. An ideal place for truck drivers to gather, enjoy themselves, and to get a bit of much needed relaxation.

Harry Jack and Gail Jack, proprietors of the service station, are real go-getters and are to be commended for their efforts in helping boost Brisbane to prominence.

RECORD CROWD ATTENDED VETS DANCE SATURDAY

Event Proves Brisbane Vets Know How To Entertain In Great Style

Brisbane Veterans are being congratulated this week on the great success of their annual dance, Saturday evening of last week. With approximately 300 dancers on the floor, good music and excellent entertainment, the vets feel that the affair was indeed well worth the time and effort spent.

During intermissions specialty numbers were put on by the following: Emily Myatt, vocalist; Irene Rusconi, vocalist and pianist; Duke Simmons, drums. The above performers are regularly featured at Dick's Tower and through the courtesy of the management their services were donated to help make things merrier at the dance.

Following the closing number the crowd migrated to Dick's Tower where they further enjoyed themselves until the wee hours of the morning.

Legion Head Guest At Auxiliary Meet

Honored during the American Legion Auxiliary state convention at Stockton will be Mrs. Glenn A. Snodgrass of Phoenix, Ariz., representing the national organization. The convention will be held from August 8 to 11. Mrs. Snodgrass serves as vice president of the Auxiliary Western Division, which includes all states west of the Rockies as well as Alaska and Hawaii.

Air Crash Kills U. S. Official

Aboard the ill-starred Pan-American Grace airliner which plunged into the Caribbean Sea 20 miles west of Cristobal, Canal Zone, recently was G. Q. Caldwell of Washington, D. C., a U. S. Department of Commerce inspector, shown here. Also in the disaster which took 14 lives was Rex Martin of the U. S. Bureau of Air Commerce. Two submarines, three destroyers and a navy air fleet dispatched from Coco Solo, C. Z., were ordered to participate in the search for bodies.

WANT RETURN OF MEET DATE AS CONVENIENT

San Mateo Publishers Want Supervisors To Restore Monday Morning Sessions

At the regular meeting of the San Mateo County Press Association, Monday evening of this week, it was decided to renew the request of the publishers to have the County Board of Supervisors to again hold the regular sessions on Monday morning instead of Wednesday afternoon.

It was declared by many members that the mid week meetings, held in the afternoons, are a great handicap to publishers of weeklies in that it is inconvenient to get the news in their papers by the time of going to press Thursday afternoon or evening.

Daily publishers also feel that the 24-hour delay in publishing the events of the meeting of the day before makes the news "stale," and that its edge has been removed by publication of the news "stale," and that its edge has been removed by publication in the San Francisco daily newspapers.

Wants Separation In United States

When Mrs. Geraldine Spreckels secures a divorce from Adolph Spreckels Jr., scion of the Hillsborough Spreckels, she will select an American court in which to do so.

Her mother, Mrs. R. A. Gardner, announced this plan at her home at Fort Bliss, Texas, this week. She stated she was not aware of the date the suit will be filed.

Woman Killed In Automobile Crash

Mrs. Terry Stevens, 48, of San Pedro, was burned to death and three persons received serious injuries when two cars collided head on six miles north of Tulare, Monday of this week.

Mrs. Stevens was a passenger in the car of William O. Gould, of Harbor City.

Gould and the occupants of the other car were not seriously hurt.

LARGE PICNIC IS BEING PLANNED BY VETERANS BRISBANE WILL VOTE ON LIGHT FOR STREETS

Bayshore And Brisbane Vets Getting Ready For Grand Time

Bayshore Post American Legion and the Brisbane Veterans Club are pushing ahead rapidly with plans for a joint picnic and barbecue to be held soon.

Plenty of time is being taken to make arrangements as it will probably be one of the largest picnics, in regard to attendance, ever participated in by either town.

So far no definite date has been set for the affair, but it will be held within the next 60 days.

NEW CHURCH FOR BRISBANE TO BE ERECTED SOON

Two Lots On Visitation Ave. Purchased Recently For New Edifice

Architects have completed their plans and construction will be started soon on a new church building for Brisbane.

A structure 40x40 feet, with perhaps a smaller room at the rear for Sunday School purposes, will be erected on Visitation avenue at the corner of Klamath.

Rev. T. R. Gail, pastor in charge, states that with the rising attendance at both Sunday School and Church services it was necessary to build a structure suitable and large enough to take care of this increase.

Although services have been held in a local hall lately, it is believed that much greater growth will be shown by the church as soon as it is possible to hold meetings in its own building.

Two large lots, 50x150 feet each, are now the property of the church, and it is planned to build the structure on a "pay as you go" plan so as not to involve the members of the congregation in a lot of church indebtedness.

Columbus Day Fete Held At Pittsburg

Pittsburg will hold its fourth annual Columbus Day celebration, this year, October 15 to 17.

A motorcycle show and other entertainment will be the feature of the three-day program.

Will Strive To Learn Secrets Of Migration

In order to learn the secret of the migration of humans from Asia to the American Continent, Father Bernard R. Hubbard, the "glacier priest" from Santa Clara university, left from Nome, Alaska, for Point Barrow, this week.

He will go from there to King island to attempt to compile a history of the native "white skinned" Eskimaux living there. These natives are believed to be one of the two surviving tribes of "original" Alaskans.

A Good Place For "Jackie Horner"

H. M. King, of Riverside, Calif., claims to be owner of the largest plum tree in the world.

The seedling tree, about 45 years of age, bears small greenish-colored fruit, some of the clusters containing as many as 50 plums, and the total crop weighs close to 1200 pounds, Mr. King estimates.

The tree is 35 feet in height and has an equal spread of branches, with a trunk diameter of 18 inches, measurements disclose.

Colorado's official state bird is the lark bunting.

Board of Supervisors Sets Date And Selects Officers For Election

The County Board of Supervisors, at the regular meeting, Wednesday of this week, decided on the date of the election regarding the formation of a lighting district in the town of Brisbane.

The date set is on Tuesday, August 31.

There will be only one polling place, located at 301 Visitation avenue.

The original petition, sponsored by the Brisbane Merchants Association, contained the signatures of thirty residents of the district and was deemed sufficient to warrant the calling of an election on the date stated.

The board also appointed officers to conduct the election, as follows: Inspector, Nora R. Lothrop; judge, Clarence Woods; clerk, Mrs. Frances Walland.

There has long been considerable agitation among citizens to obtain good lighting conditions in Brisbane, it being frequently stated by many that the present existing lights are greatly inadequate to the town's needs.

Much interest of the electors has been aroused by this controversy and a large turnout of voters is predicted on election day.

Every city, town and district should be protected by proper lighting facilities, and Brisbane should be no exception to the rule.

AIRLINER SINKS WITH 14 ABOARD

Map shows where airplane observers reported the submerged luxury amphibian plane, Santa Maria, was seen under water. A Pan-American-Grace Air Lines spokesman said there was no indication as to whether any of the eleven passengers and three members of the crew had survived. The Santa Maria, en route from Guayaquil, Ecuador, with transfer passengers from Lima, Peru, seemingly overshot its stop at Cristobal in a cloudy sky.

White Or Black Which Shall It Be?

Contrary to popular belief, white pepper does not come from a different plant than black pepper. Instead of being picked while green, the berries are allowed to ripen. Then they are gathered and the outer casing removed by various processes. Sometimes the berries are soaked in water, sometimes they are buried in the ground until the shell swells and bursts, sometimes they are treated chemically. The kernel is then ground into white pepper. Although not nearly as strong as black pepper, white pepper has a peculiar and delicious flavor.

ALEXANDER OPENS AT NEW LOCATION

Alex Alexander, former operator of the 101 Club, held a formal opening at his new place of business, 300 Presidio avenue, one day last week. Many Brisbane people attended the opening and reported a fine attendance.

Vagabond Sketches by DON AMES

GRAFT DE LUX—Nearly every government function of consequence in the world today, and in the past centuries, has suffered from some form of graft. But when dishonesty is used in courts of law where justice is supposed to be found, it is high time that something be done.

In the recent San Francisco investigation into the affairs of a certain ball bond establishment, it was alleged that that clique had "fixed" juries.

A large city such as San Francisco needs fair courts. The thousand little grafts that take place in governments all over the world are nothing when placed beside dishonesty in the courts.

Father 'Bewildered' In Child Stealing

Otto Horst, father of the infant Donald who was taken from his mother in Chicago by Mr. and Mrs. John Regan, who claim the child as their own, was "bewildered" with the whole incident, he said. The thirty-months' old son was given back to the Horsts while the state attorney's office made a complete investigation of the "kidnaping."

Pros and Amateurs Alike Beat Rules So More Fun's Due

IT PROBABLY is just as well that the Congressional Record keeps the more pious fretters about the nation's naughtiness so busy that they have no time for the sports pages. Otherwise there might be considerable hell to pay because of the immoral manner in which athletes have been desecrating the summer peace.

For instance, there was the recent moment in Brooklyn when the young Red, Lee Grissom, slid into Babe Phelps, raked his spikes into the catcher's meaty arm and received a few pokes in the lugg.

It was a moment which, no doubt, horrified the good citizens of a borough which is not accustomed to such boisterous doings from mere $8,000 a year ball players. Yet, since this offense against baseball law occurs almost daily in less sanctified big time towns, I do not mention the incident in any highly moral dudgeon of my own.

Ever since David found a way to beat the weight in his well publicized contest with Goliath, the rules of sports have been subjected to considerable monkey business. No doubt this partly has been due to the fact that healthy young men (and women) engaged in rough and vigorous competition have no time for fretting about the strict letter of the code.

There was, for instance, the Old Oriole device for persuading runners to linger at third base. John Joseph McGraw, slid into Babe Phelps, raked his spikes into the catcher's meaty arm and received a few pokes in the lugg. McGraw was the originator of that one. He merely grabbed the runner by the belt and held him while the umpire's attention was elsewhere. It worked very well save for one afternoon when a runner, who also happened to be an advanced thinker, unbuckled his belt before reaching the bag. The runner rounded the base. McGraw grabbed. McGraw was left there holding the belt while the runner—he probably also had thought of providing himself with a safety pin—was scoring easily.

There are certain other episodes which also may be mentioned in connection with purely amateur sports affairs, lest it be considered that too much stress is given here to the carryings on of the pros.

Gals Put on Catty Act at Swank Hunts Meet

When Don Meade imitated a regiment of Cossacks while winning a Kentucky Derby some seasons ago, there were numerous high class folks who roundly deplored such tactics. Truly enough, it was a highly enlightening and sinful sight but scarcely as entertaining as a hunt meeting I once viewed in Maryland.

One of the events was for lady riders and it was evident from the start that only two of the gals had a chance. The two took their duties seriously. For the first furlong they tried to ride one another onto the rail.

After that they really got down to business. They finished the race whipping. But, for once, both horses got a break. The two sportswomen were using their whips on one another.

Golf also has had its moments. Once—this is for the greater education of those who squawk that the United States has exclusive privileges along such lines—an American went to England to compete in a tournament. His short game was tops but he was not a long driver. The Briton he opposed in the final could hit 'em a mile.

For the greater glory of the homeland, the tournament committee—probably composed of the same gees who booed the winning American Ryder Cup team—moved the tees a mere 20 yards or so farther away from the greens.

This was almost as good as the not too distant season when the hospitable French soaked their tennis courts so that their soft game players would not be inconvenienced against hard-hitting Americans.

Perhaps the crusaders for a better life would be immensely solaced if this space contained a moral directed at the young men who have been waving boisterous fists on ball fields this season. Yet far be it from this erring brother to pitch out the first stone.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

HURDLER SPEC TOWNS is refusing all track invitations this summer so that he may concentrate on training for his final football campaign at Georgia Tech. . . Glenn Cunningham also is turning down track bids, including a European tour, because he does not wish to take time off from his post-graduate studies. . . Jack Irwin, handsome Princeton track and football star, is on a world cruise and plans to relieve the tedium by doing sports pieces for the papers. . . Gene Venke says the Randalls island track has improved 100 per cent over last year but Archie San Romani disagrees.

Golfers insist that the National Open scoring next year will be a joke, with the winning mark probably as low as 260. This is because the Denver course selected by the all-wise U. S. G. A., is so short, wide and easy that feeble amateurs shoot in the low 70's. Fellows like Little, Laffoon and Thomson, who have played there, have been well under 65 time and again. Nothing much that can be done about it, either, the pros say. Even though the course is lengthened and cunningly trapped, the high altitude will continue to make the balls travel long distances.

Summer vacations have not halted the arguments at Lafayette, once one of the better football institutions. Historically minded students who do not see eye to eye with Athletic Director Eskey Clark or University President Lewis, who is his chief backer, have labeled the present gridiron regime "The Lewis and Clark expedition into the wilderness." . . . Also players who liked the departed coach, Ernie Nevers, are agreed that the former Stanford star never will be a really able mentor. They say that, like Pie Traynor of the Pirates, he is too easy going.

Jerry Day, Hill tennis star, and Tommy Pierce, eastern interscholastic golf champion, are passing up college stardom to enter Babson institute. . . Army continues in the sports writers' doghouse due to inept press relations. . . The word is out that this year's Boston college football team will be the best Gil Dobie has coached since his Kaw-Pfann Cornell days. . . Uncle Gil should watch that pass defense, though. . . Jimmy Marks, son of the Kiski headmaster and football coach, plays a very swell game of golf in spite of the fact that he can't pivot properly due to a ligament missing from his knee as the result of a gridiron accident.

Lawson Little feels something should be done about the amateur golf situation. Says you can count the good ones on the fingers of one hand. Goodman, Strafaci, Fischer, Dunlap, Billows. Just like that. . . Princetons and Yales are still squabbling. Seems the Tigers still resent the brusque attitude of Malcolm Farmer who has charge of Eli athletics. . . Keep an eye, by the way, on Al Lane, captain and fullback of the Princeton Frosh last fall. He is the brother of Art Lane and he may be the man to make up for the loss of the very capable Steve Cullinan at center. Anyhow, he is spending the summer working out at the job and devotes three hours a day to pivot passing alone.

Pittsburgh was the only team to score in every game it played at Wrigley field last season. . . Max Bodenheim, who startled the nation with his sexy novels a few years back and who now is producing a volume of worthwhile poems, is one of New York's most ardent baseball fans and can spout averages for hours. . . In addition to controlling the world prize fight situation, Uncle Mike Jacobs also owns the prettiest country estate north, east, south or west of Red Bank, N. J.

Fred Fitzsimmons and Waite Hoyt have carried on a friendly yet persistent argument ever since they joined the Dodgers. Fitz insists that John J. McGraw was the greatest manager who ever lived, while Hoyt gives his vote to Miller Huggins. . . Lee Grissom of the Reds pitched two shutouts in one day while performing for Fort Worth against Houston in 1935. . . Friends report Bill Barfield, former great Princeton tackle, is at his Florida home recovering from a nervous breakdown.

The hint is out that Ducky Pond is nearly through at Yale. Also that the reason why Larry Kelley did not turn pro is because he will take over the head coaching job (along with the Greasy Neale brain trust) in 1938. . . Princeton's Steve Cullinan, now dwelling in the Southwest, writes that Texas Christian will be tougher than ever this fall. Says that 20 of the T. C. U. athletes are working out on a ranch this summer. . . Keep tabs on young Harry Bill of Lawrenceville. The fellow is so small that he could skin through that needle's eye, but he has a great competitive spirit.

If Star Golfer Frankie Strafaci would stop eating greasy fried egg sandwiches for breakfast on the days he is playing in tournaments he might be far more successful. But Frankie likes them and insists they don't hurt, even though he practically collapsed in the locker room between rounds of a recent event.

Hay Fever Is No Longer Such a Mystery to Medical Science

Skin Sensitization Test Can Now Find What Allergy Is Troubling You

By WILLIAM C. UTLEY

K A-CHOOO-OO-OO! Ha-ha-ha-WISH-eeeeee! Sniffle, sniffle, wheeze—gib be a haggichiff, quig! Hey, hey, it's the good old summer time and the hay fever season is open.

"Why, oh, why, do I have to go through this every year?" is the wail of the hay fever sufferer, and well it might be for there is hardly an affliction so relentless in its unwelcome annual visits.

The answer to the victim's cry is that he is allergic to something in the air, probably the pollen from a plant or weed. What particular plant it is determines whether its pollen rides the air waves in May, June, July or September.

Time used to be that hay fever victims, when they began to sneeze, their eyes started to water and their noses to sniffle, simply had to pack up, leave home and make for the North Woods or the resorts at Charlevoix and Mackinac island in Michigan where the air is comparatively free from dust and pollen. While this made an excellent excuse for a vacation it was a considerable expense and often a great inconvenience.

Fortunately today medical science has made such strides that hay fever can now be treated with a pretty fair degree of success right at home. The big task is to find out what type of pollen is causing each individual case. To do this doctors may have to be expert detectives, for many different individuals are allergic to different things.

Results of Allergy.

All of us are allergic to something or other, whether it be a certain type of food, the hair of a certain animal, feathers from pillows, some types of dust, or even smoke. But only about one person in ten is allergic to such a degree that he is uncomfortable.

By allergic we mean, in a free sense, that we are unusually sensitive to something. A high degree of allergy to some of the things mentioned in the foregoing paragraph may result in any one or combination of a number of afflictions—eczema, hives, "colds," hay fever, headache, diarrhea and other ailments.

Hay fever symptoms spring from hives which occur in the nose, sinuses and eyes, causing sneezing and itching. If they were to occur in the lungs, causing spasmodic contraction of the bronchial tubes and coughing, they would produce asthma. When hay fever occurs the pollen to which the victim is allergic enters the nasal ducts, inflaming them; the poison passes to the throat and bronchial tubes, and finally to the ends of the bronchial tracts, where swelling occurs.

The hay fever victim need not even be living in the neighborhood of the plants whose pollen are at the bottom of his grief. To follow a hypothetical case, let us say a patch of ragweeds was blossoming in a vacant lot of some city. A high wind came, spiriting away the seeds, lifting them up over the city and carrying them a hundred or even two hundred miles from the place they grew. At last as the wind dies they settle down, unhappily, right before an unfortunate soul who is allergic to ragweed pollen without ever having discovered it. He breathes them into his nose—thousands of them, for it would take 50,000 to cover the head of a pin.

Test Skin With Pollen.

Soon his nasal duct is inflamed and he begins to sneeze. Then the poison passes down through his throat and bronchial tubes and swelling occurs. His eyes redden, his nose itches "where he can't get at it to scratch it," and he begins to sniffle constantly.

Aerial surveys, conducted thousands of feet up, test the air for hay fever pollen.

Perhaps our friend thinks he has a cold. But the doctor says, "Hay fever," and tells him he had better find out what type of pollen is causing the trouble. The customary procedure is for the doctor to begin making skin sensitization tests. Little scratches are made on the arm, and into each of these scratches one drop of pollen solution is placed; a different type of pollen is used on each scratch. The sufferer is allergic to the type of pollen placed in any scratch which reddens and swells.

We'll say our hypothetical victim is allergic to ragweed pollen. His protests to the doctor that he has not been near any ragweed need not confuse us, for we know how the pollen got to him. The doctor explains it to him, too.

Now the doctor orders injections of the proper type of pollen vaccine into the blood. Next year, now that the patient's allergy is known, he will be given minute, but increasing doses of the injection, starting in February and continuing for a few weeks until it is thought he should be immune when the season comes. It does not always work out that way, and sometimes daily injections during the season itself do not help.

Different pollens do their dastardly work at different times of the year in different sections. In the eastern and central states, for instance, June grass causes trouble around the beginning of that month; in early July it is Timothy hay, late the following month the giant ragweed and as September starts it is the small or common ragweed.

When Suffering Begins.

How severe a victim's symptoms are depends upon the amount of pollen that is filling the air he breathes as well as upon his susceptibility. The amount of pollen is likely to vary from day to day. It will be stirred up more, of course, when there is a good breeze, and it will tend to settle on a calm day. In some states at the height of the season it is not unusual to find 1,000 to 2,000 grains of pollen to the cubic yard of air. Pollen thins out in higher atmospheres, but aviators making scientific tests can find it a mile above the earth.

It is when the air contains a pollen count of 25 to the cubic yard that the hay fever victim begins to suffer, so you can imagine his misery when the count reaches 2,000!

According to medical scientists, you should not sit next to an open window on a train if you would avoid hay fever, although air-conditioned cars are all right, for the pollen is filtered from the air in them. Nasal sprays will protect the nose in some measure from attack, and a little white vaseline around the opening of the nostrils will keep some of the pollen from getting in. Victims will find themselves more comfortable in a dark room where there are no drafts.

Although ten persons in one hundred suffer to some degree because they are allergic, only one of these ten, on an average, has hay fever. Various allergy victims suffer in various ways.

Sensitive to Horse Hair.

Take the case of the city child who was accustomed enough to thousands of automobiles in his daily life, but seldom, if ever, laid eyes on a horse. Finally coming across one in the street one day he approached it closely to examine the queer animal at length. He began to choke up and there was a severe excretion of fluid from the lungs. Now he had played with cats at times, and he owned a little wire-haired fox terrier, but none of these had ever affected him so. It just turned out that he was allergic to horse hair.

Actually, now that skin sensitization tests are common, it has been found that many supposed hay fever sufferers did not have hay fever, but were allergic to their own dog or cat. You can even be allergic to cigarette smoke. There is on record the case of a woman who was sensitive to that kind of smoke. Her husband smoked a pipe; when she played bridge at the home of friends who smoked cigarettes she would begin to sniffle and appear to have a cold. The doctor found what was troubling her and treated her for it. Now her companions could smoke corn silk without bothering her.

CALIFORNIA News of the Week

Heat Kills Eleven

El Centro.—Imperial Valley's death toll from the heat of Summer reached eleven at the end of last week.

Orange Votes Big Bond Issue

Santa Ana.—Orange County voters, by a margin of almost 10 to 1, have approved a $2,500,000 county bond issue to assure a $15,000,000 flood control project.

S. F. Hotels Reopen

San Francisco.—Nineteen leading San Francisco hostels, closed by strikes since May 1, opened for business last week after signing of agreements with seventeen affected unions.

California Leads N. Y. in Cars

Sacramento.—A report of the State Department of Motor Vehicles showed California has passed New York as the owner of the greatest number of passenger automobiles. California, with her 6,500,000 population, owns 2,178,938 passenger vehicles, compared with 2,105,941 in New York, with a population of approximately 13,000,000.

'Townsend for President' Club

San Bernardino.—A "Townsend for President" movement has been launched here with the formation of a club to send Dr. Francis F. Townsend, old age pension advocate, to the White House. H. Y. Basham, club president, said he received a letter from L. W. Jeffrey, Chicago assistant to Dr. Townsend, advising that the latter "did not approve nor oppose your use of the name Townsend in the manner suggested."

Hitler Kisser in New Role

Norwalk.—Mrs. Clara de Vries, who caused an international sensation by kissing Adolf Hitler at the 1936 Olympics, has a new distinction last week. With relatives and friends she was helping her husband, George de Vries, milk 1000 cars at his strike bound dairy. The strike started when 30 employees walked out after de Vries announced, "the C. I. O. wants to run my business, but I won't let them."

Rattlesnakes Praised as Food

Davis.—Rattlesnake meat as a food delicacy was approved by L. N. McQueston, assistant county agent for Yolo County, on his return from an insect collecting trip in the northern part of the State. He was accompanied by three Davis youths. They collected about 5,000 insect specimens for the National Insect Company, operated by McQueston. He said that during the trip a large rattlesnake was killed and eaten and the meat was found not only palatable but something of a delicacy.

St. Mary's College Sold

Oakland.—St. Mary's College, famed for its football teams and beautiful campus, has been sold at auction for about 30 cents on the dollar to two San Francisco attorneys. The purchasers, Gerald Levin and Leland Groezinger, said they acquired the property as an investment and did not represent the bondholders' committee. The purchase price was $411,150. The foreclosure was ordered by the sheriff because of failure of the college to meet payments on $1,370,000 worth of bonds.

High Cost of Dying Hit

San Francisco.—The "high cost of dying" was scored by Coroner T. B. W. Leland in a reply to charges by the San Francisco Association of Morticians that he "has been misusing his office." He said an investigation disclosed the average funeral cost here is $227 and that "the cheapest funeral with incineration runs to almost $100." "The result," he added, "is that unless a poor man wants his dead buried in the potter's field he must undergo what—for him—is a terrific expense and probably plunge himself into debt for months."

$300,000 Fair Fund Planned

San Jose.—Eight counties, comprising the central coast district, are considering plans for building a $300,000 structure at the 1939 Golden Gate Exposition. At a district meeting held in Salinas, representatives from Santa Clara, San Mateo, San Benito, Santa Cruz, Monterey, San Luis Obispo, Ventura and Santa Barbara counties expressed the hope of raising $100,000 from the State fund, the remainder to be made up by each county. The $300,000 will be divided three ways, one-third for the building, one-third for exhibits and maintenance, the rest for advertising and promotion.

Dogs Get Uniforms

Sacramento.—Bob and Jim, famed canine law enforcers and game protectors, have been presented with "uniforms" bearing the insignia of the State division of fish and game by the field personnel.

County Refuses Outsiders Aid

Yuba City.—Indigents from other States will not find a welcome in Sutter County. The board of supervisors has decided to decline aid to all needy persons except bona fide residents of the County.

Look Out, Playboys! Chorines Master Muskets

Tokyo.—If, as pulp-paper novels would have you believe, chorus girls are the champion "gold diggers," these dancers of the Osaka Girls' Opera troupe should be doubly dangerous. Equipped with muskets, they perform daily drills under the supervision of an army officer "to promote the spirit of organized action."

SAMMY JAY TOO EXCITED TO TALK STRAIGHT

SAMMY JAY was excited. Everybody who heard him knew that, and everybody who was anywhere near heard him. They would have had to be stone deaf not to have. Sammy is just like some people—when he gets just a little excited he begins to talk in a loud voice. The more excited he gets the louder he talks. By and by, when he gets very much excited, he screams. That is what he was doing this beautiful spring morning, screaming as no one ever had heard him scream before. Indeed, he was so excited that his tongue couldn't go fast enough and tripped over his words and mixed things up so that no one could make out what he was trying to say.

"What's Got Into You, Sammy Jay?" Demanded Peter.

He came flying out of the Green Forest, flying as fast as he could make his wings go, and screaming at the top of his lungs. He saw Jimmy Skunk coming down the Lone Little Path and flew to meet him.

"He's a stranger and he's black!" screamed Sammy.

"Who's a stranger and who's black?" asked Jimmy.

"And he's got great, big claws in his mouth!" continued Sammy.

Jimmy Skunk stopped short and stared very hard at Sammy Jay.

"Say that again," said he.

But just then Sammy caught sight of Peter Rabbit by his dear Old Briar Patch. "Oh, I must tell Peter!" he screamed. "Peter! Peter Rabbit! He's there! He's bigger than Farmer Brown's boy and he walks!" And all the time he was screaming this long before he was anywhere near the Old Briar Patch.

Jimmy Skunk was still staring after him and scratching his head in a puzzled kind of way, when along came Unc' Billy Possum.

Sweet and Low

Sweet and low in a bevy of striking silhouettes, this hat has a charm all its own. It is of navy blue felt, trimmed with narrow flanges of cerise, bright blue and navy belting ribbon. The cloche brim is youthful and flattering.

Unc' Billy grinned as he looked over toward the Old Briar Patch.

"Mistah Jaybird's done gone crazy," said he. "He's done gone crazy in his head. Whoever heard of anybody with great big claws in his mouth?"

Now, Peter could make no more sense of what Sammy was saying than could Jimmy Skunk and Unc' Billy Possum.

"Who walks, Sammy Jay? Don't most people walk? What's got into you, Sammy Jay?" demanded Peter.

But Sammy couldn't keep still long enough to answer questions, and off he flew toward the Smiling Pool in search of Billy Mink and Jerry Muskrat and Grandfather Frog, and as he flew he still screamed in the same excited way, and Peter heard something about "long teeth" and "big feet," all of which was very perplexing, and, of course, made Peter very, very curious. He straightway started to hunt up Jimmy Skunk to see if Jimmy knew what it meant, and half way down the Lone Little Path he met

FIRST-AID TO AILING HOUSE

By ROGER B. WHITMAN

PROTECTION AGAINST TERMITES

I AM hearing more and more of damage to houses by termites, and from practically all sections of the country. Termites are now known to be the real cause of a destruction of wood that was formerly blamed on dry rot. It is a matter of fact that nature provides termites for the reduction of dead wood to mold. They are part of the scheme of things. They are pests only when they attack wood that mankind wants to preserve. We cannot hope to exterminate termites. Our protection against them is to build our houses in such a way that they cannot be invaded.

Termite nests are always in the ground. In attacking a house, they do not set up nests in the woodwork, but travel back and forth between the wood and the home nest. Considering the damage that they can do, it seems only rational to build a house in such a way and of such materials that an attack will not be possible.

Foundations should be poured concrete, reinforced with steel bars to prevent cracking. In modern house designs, the first floor is on a level with the ground—or nearly so. This brings the floor beams within easy reach of termites. These beams should therefore be of steel instead of wood. Sills, studs, sheathing and other wood parts are also exposed. For protection, these wood parts should be impregnated with any one of several chemicals that will make them termite-proof. Treated wood can be had through any lumber yard. The price will be somewhat increased, but considering the damage that is avoided, the extra cost can be regarded as insurance, and is certainly a small price to pay.

Termites are of three classes or castes. The largest caste is made up of the "workers," which do the damage. A second class, is known as "soldiers," protect the workers against the attacks of ants and other enemies. Both of these castes are white; they are blind and never come to the surface. The third class is made up of winged black "reproductives." Once a year in the spring, occasionally also in the fall, these appear in a great swarm; they flutter about for a brief time, drop their wings, and disappear. A swarm of these insects is a danger signal that no home owner should disregard. He should at once find out whether his house has been attacked. There will be no outward sign on the woodwork; the destruction will all be within and can be learned only by drilling small holes, by pounding, or in some other way that will indicate hollowing of the timber. He may find slender tunnels of clay over the surface of masonry, these being the paths by which the termites circulate from the nest in the group. Information on how to proceed can be had from a pamphlet issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. The departments of agriculture of many states also have information.

It's Not From a Horror Movie

Berlin.—No fantastic setting for a "Frankenstein" cinema is this weird scene. The group of scientists gathered about the diabolic contraption are engaged in the smashing of the atom, to harness the tremendous power within it. The 50-foot machine uses 3,000,000 volts of electricity, and is housed in a windowless tower 135 feet high. Prof. Peter Debye is conducting the experiments in the Emperor Wilhelm institute of physics.

With Equal Weight

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

NOT only Atlas bore the earth
Upon his shoulders. Also we Have some small world of some small worth

For our responsibility.
Not burdened only are the great.
For others have them, each and all;

Yes, problems press with equal weight
Upon the mighty and the small.

Our own small world our own small way
Each on his aching shoulder
bears.

They little understand it, they Concerned alone with large affairs.

Some little duty takes our time,
Some little worry takes our sleep,
Some little slope we have to climb,
Some little family to keep.

I have my world, and you have yours.

The little often larger than
Some other at his ease endures,
And quite forgets the little man.
The little burden may be great,
The great be little, after all.

At least they bear with equal weight
Upon the mighty and the small.

GRAPHIC GOLF

By BEST BALL

POSITION OF RIGHT ARM

KEEP your eye on the golfer who is overanxious to kill the ball and you no doubt will see him flap the right arm around so that at the top of the stroke it is almost straight out from the trunk of the body. From such a position it is very easy to make the mistake of coming onto the ball from the outside in, i.e., cutting across the ball and adding a slice. Furthermore such an extreme movement adds an unnecessary tension to this arm which it could very well do without. The proper method is to keep the right arm comfortably close to the right side. Tommy Armour for example keeps his right elbow tucked in close but possesses freedom of action nevertheless. Armour's is more or less of an extreme position; most of the players allow the right arm a trifle more freedom after the manner of Bobby Jones above. On the longer shots the Atlanta wizard's elbow is raised moderately and on the first stages of the downstroke, drops abruptly nearer the side. The cock of the wrists is in no manner disturbed by this motion and their power is saved to be utilized later on. The abrupt dropping of the right arm insures a swinging path from the inside, close to the body and brings the clubhead onto the ball straight along the line of flight.

Sew, Sew, Sew-Your-Own

TO MAKE you the girl of his dreams (and to keep him always dreaming), that's the happy ambition behind these newest creations by Sew-Your-Own. One of these frocks to enhance your beauty, and an evening to spend in that romantic lane of Moonlight and Roses—isn't it quite likely that you will become the girl of his dreams?

Luncheon for Two.

When he takes you out to luncheon you should be the very essence of chic. A two pieceer like the one at the left will bring the sort of eye-compliments you like, and you'll find it a great boon to comfort if the date is to be soon. You will probably want it made of the season's hit material, sheer crepe. The vestee is smart in a contrasting color.

When It's Dancing.

He'll be very Scotch about giving away dances when he sees you in your copy of the frock in the center. It was really born to dance. The tucked skirt has all the thrilling sophistication of a gored one, and it's much easier to sew. Little touches of grosgrain, and pretty puff sleeves add the kind of quiet elegance that makes this your choice for those happy hours of dancing under the stars.

End of Summer.

The season, like romance, rolls swiftly. But you still have time to do a few summery things in a summery frock such as the one at the right. In dimity or swiss it will make you more youthful and charming than many a more ornate style (and after all the girl of his dreams must be young and charming). A good suggestion might be to cut a carbon copy, while you're about it, in sheer wool with long sleeves. Then there'll be nothing to worry about when a cool evening happens along.

The Patterns.

Pattern 1288 is designed for sizes 14-20 (32 to 42 bust). Size 18 requires 3½ yards of 39-inch material.

Pattern 1326 is designed for sizes 12-20 (30 to 38 bust). Size 14 requires 4 yards of 39-inch material.

Pattern 1228 is designed for sizes 11-19 (29 to 37 bust). Size 13 requires 4½ yards of 35 or 39-inch material. With long sleeves 4½ yards are required.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., 149 New Montgomery Ave., San Francisco, Calif. Patterns 15 cents (in coins) each.

ROCKAWAY BEACH PEDRO VALLEY

Rockaway misses its popular stand-by, Mrs. Jennie Bicknell, who has gone to Angels Camp for a vacation. Florence and Annabelle whisper, with mischievous snickers, that Jennie plans to bring back a good looking cow-puncher, or, better yet, a miner. (Object, matrimony?) With a really good miner about there might be gold in that there Trogia yard, just waiting to be shoveled up.

Russell Lewis of Shelter Cove writes from Redondo Beach: "I am having a swell time, swimming, fishing, boating, etc. Everything is just as it was when I left here eight years ago. The weather is pretty good and the water delightfully warm. You ought to see the fish bite! One after another, as fast as they can be landed." Russell and his sister Marilyn have been spending part of their vacation time in the south, the latter with friends at Forest Grove, the former aboard one of his father's fishing boats, Olympia No. 1. Bob stayed at home to see that nobody ran off with the Cove.

The David Clarks are entertaining as visitors in their mountain home Mrs. Clark's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Minor and two children, Birda and Orville.

The Karl Strutzes have a new dog to fill the vacancy left by the former one which mysteriously disappeared some time ago.

Ted Cupman of Rockaway and his chum Bud Hawkins, of San Francisco, spent a fine holiday time at the San Francisco Boys Club camp at Port Bragg. They returned Monday, after several weeks absence, and somebody tells this column that the girls of Rockaway are not a bit sorry to have Ted back again. The two boys report a good time from first to last.

And, by the way, several girls would like to know who that young fellow is who drives around in a Ford car at night and turns a spotlight on everyone he meets or passes. The girls hint he has not made a hit with them by doing this.

Mrs. Bailey enjoyed a weekend at Yosemite with her friends, the Bakers of Vallejo. She says the days were hot, especially at El Portal, but cooled off after sunset. This was Mrs. Bailey's first trip to Yosemite.

Clyde Garner is making a beauty spot of his garden, building it into terraces with stone steps and a fine stone wall. His only trouble, so he tells the world, is that he can't keep Anne Garner, his wife, from picking the flowers. Some one suggested a "Keep off the Grass" sign, which he thought a good idea. But the sign hasn't appeared yet, and the flowers are still vanishing.

Dr. Le Fevre and wife came down during the week for a stay at their attractive home on Grande avenue. The house has a new coat of paint in an agreeable color combination.

The Rees Tavern draws admiring comments from all who visit its beautiful new bar. The quaint entrance, built to look like a Mexican adobe shack, through which patrons pass to reach the dance floor and bar, is an original idea of Harry's that brings visitors from far and wide to see it. The Rees "dude rance" riding horses are in great demand for jaunts through this picturesque region.

MANY CROPS TO BE READY FOR HARVEST SOON

Workers Asked To Register At County Offices For Work

The local manager of the National Reemployment Service which is located at 325 B street, San Mateo, announced, Tuesday of this week, that the employment service is arranging for immediate release of information in regard to crop harvest which will effect this area. As in the past, the service has worked with agriculturists in all parts of the state in securing sufficient workers to harvest their crops.

Crops which will be ready for harvest in the near future are peaches, hops, cotton, grapes, and sugar beets. These crops will require that many thousand harvest hands be directed to those areas where they are needed.

Depending upon the crop and the location, many different working areas are offered by employers. There will be work for single men, married men, and whole families, with or without experience. Some areas report that free tents will be available for those who register for work immediately. Camping facilities, good water, free wood, and sanitary showers and other facilities are available in most areas.

It is requested that all persons interested in doing agricultural work register at once at 325 B street, San Mateo, so that arrangements may be made to refer them to employers when the crops are ready. No great shortage of workers is reported from any district, and crop workers are requested not to move to any area in the hope of finding work without first applying to the local office of the National Reemployment Service for the latest, most reliable information in regard to working conditions and the demand for labor.

CONGRESSMAN TAKES ISSUE ON BASE LOCATION

Says Foes Of Naval Supply Base On This Side Of Bay Block Industry

With reference to the proposed naval supply base on San Francisco Bay, Congressman J. J. McGrath, when interviewed by a representative at Washington, D. C., several weeks ago made this statement:

Recently some of the Peninsula newspapers carried an item based on press dispatches from Washington which indicated that I had "reduced a resolution to investigate a site for a naval base on San Francisco Bay, although the President had already signed a bill allocating funds for the construction of such a base at Alameda.

The bill which the President signed allocated funds under certain conditions for the construction of a naval air base, while my resolution refers to the selection of a site for proposed

Socialite Wife Of Orchestra Leader Dies At Childbirth

Mrs. Eddie Duchin, wife of the nationally known dance orchestra leader, who died in New York recently from complications following the birth of a son. Mrs. Duchin, the former Miss Marjorie Oelrichs, underwent a series of blood transfusions in an effort to save her life. She and Duchin were married June 5, 1935, after she had said, "Phooey on the Social Register!"

naval supply base to be located on San Francisco Bay in accordance with the needs of the navy.

His declaration is borne out by the verbiage of the resolution introduced by Congressman McGrath, which reads as follows:

RESOLUTION

"Whereas it is essential to national defense that adequate naval supply depots or bases be established at proper locations on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts; and

"Whereas it has been established as an integral part of the system of national defense that such a naval supply depot or base be located on San Francisco Bay, California; and

"Whereas it is of vital importance that a suitable site be selected on San Francisco Bay which shall have immediate and direct contact with both railroad and deep-water facilities, permitting the loading of all types of naval vessels directly from the wharves and docks of said depot or base: Therefore be it

"Resolved, That the Speaker of the House of Representatives be, and hereby is, empowered and directed to appoint a committee of five, whose duty it shall be to investigate any available sites for a naval supply depot or base on San Francisco Bay, California, and to report their findings to the House of Representatives at the beginning of the second regular session of the Seventy-fifth Congress; and be it further

"Resolved, That the necessary expenses of said committee not to exceed the amount of $— shall be paid from the contingent fund of the House of Representatives."

In a letter received by Eugene Signarowitz, a leader in the affairs of the Twenty-sixth District, American Legion, McGrath charged that "old groups" are "determined to prevent industrial development on the Peninsula," and declared that the fight to have all available sites in the area considered as possible location for the naval supply depot will continue.

Signarowitz, defended the Congressman's stand when the district voted by resolution recently to ask the congressman to support Oakland for the base. At that time, Signarowitz insisted that McGrath was supporting his district.

McGrath further stated:

"I am so accustomed to seeing chambers of commerce and veterans' organizations used for selfish ends that I am not surprised at anything, but Chairman Walsh of the Senate naval affairs committee seems thoroughly familiar with the situation.

"I understand Senator Walsh's position to be the same as mine—that all available sites should be considered."

Unemployment Fund Payments To Start

Mailing of more than 25,000 forms to employers of California, who will start making monthly returns of contributions to the Unemployment Trust Fund this month, started in the offices of the Department of Employment this week.

The new form is a revised edition of CURC-3, on which employers of the state previously have made returns by quarters.

The contribution rate during 1937 is one and eight-tenths per cent of all wages paid by employers in subject employment, who also must deduct nine-tenths of one per cent from their employees pay, remitting the same to the Unemployment Fund.

Previous to the new rule, employers have been permitted to make return of contributions quarterly or monthly as they might elect.

The new rule commencing with July is made in accordance with a uniform requirement by the Social Security Board whereby all states will collect contributions each month.

Congressman McGrath deserves commendation for the introduction of his resolution, not only in the interest of economy and better service, but for his diligence and perseverance in serving the welfare of his constituents.

BAYSHORE NEWS

A surprise shower was given in honor of Mrs. Harry Weinberg, bride of a few weeks, at her home in Bayshore last Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Weinberg was the recipient of a joint gift from the ladies. After a nice luncheon, the afternoon was spent playing the popular game of bingo. Those present were the Mesdames Sullivan, Barer, Bishop, Luhrs, Tooth, Patchen, Filarski, Smith and Miss Pansy Sullivan.

Mrs. Rhoda Lawson is quite ill. Her friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Joseph Walling, popular member of the Bayshore Fire Department and mechanic for the fire district for many years, is now a resident of Bayshore. He and his family moved into their new home on Rio Verde street last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop of San Francisco have rented the Cash residence on Schwerin street.

Clifford Richards and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ford left, Friday of this week, for a few days visit to the biggest little city in the world, Reno, Nevada.

The Bayshore Goodfellows and Goodladies held their annual picnic at Half Moon Bay last Sunday. Mrs. Fred Thornton entertained the ladies at their last meeting at her home.

Master Stanley Dufford was guest of honor on his eighth birthday last week when his mother invited all his little friends to a party at his house. The young man received many nice gifts.

The Bayshore Voters League plans on holding a "round-up" of all members at their regular monthly meeting. A surprise has been planned by Mrs. Elizabeth Adams Lafford and she says a "round-up" atmosphere will prevail. The league held a whist last Wednesday evening and the proceeds will go to help the bazaar fund. Harry Wright is busy renovating the ladies rest room in the hall and as soon as the work is completed it will be tastefully decorated with drapes and furnishings. These have been purchased from funds of the ladies treasury which got its start from the last bazaar.

Chief of Police Williams and Mrs. Williams have just returned from a vacation hunting trip. Jess Monahan took the chief's place during his absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Malone and daughters, Betty and Peggy, and Mr. and Mrs. Wiggins picnicked near San Jose last Sunday.

Bill and Irene Mardecich celebrated their 12th wedding anniversary last Sunday. Bill worked all day on his new house as usual.

Miss Winola Ford will spend the weekend in Memorial Park with the Taylor girls. The Misses Taylor will return home after an absence from home of five weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Pierce and Joan spent the weekend in Ben Lomond.

COUNTY HORSE SHOW HAS WIDE INTEREST RANGE

Many Special Events Will Be Included In Program For The Week

Filled with many "special events," ranging in spectator interest from the beautiful and the spectacular to the thrilling, is the eleventh annual San Mateo County National Horse Show, opening for one week starting Saturday afternoon and evening at the Menlo Circus Club in Atherton.

In addition to the many formal horse show classes and stake events which make up each of the show's ten performances, are events which will be long remembered, the show president believes. For instance, there's the amusing comedy harness race for professionals only, who will drive sulkeys to "antiquated" steeds of all shapes and sizes around the ring; there's the hard and fast game "musical chairs" to be played by men only, certain to engage spectators in hearty laughter; there's the thrilling exhibition of a 16-horse team of pure bred Belgian draft horses, each weighing a ton or more, that will come tearing into the ring with E. G. Stinsen, owner, driving all 16 at one time. Then there's the spectacular exhibition of stock

PERSECUTION BY BUS LINE CLAIM OF JOSEPH GALIK

Says Greyhound Monopoly Trying To Crush Independents

Joseph A. Galik, recently arrested and convicted by the State Railroad Commission, in a signed letter to the Brisbane Sun, claims that he has been persecuted and persecuted by the Greyhound lines. Here is his communication to the Sun for which we claim no responsibility as to accuracy of statement or otherwise:

"I wish to call your attention to the decision, No. 29,936 of the California Railroad Commission and case No. 3371, in which I, Joseph A. Galik, have been prosecuted and persecuted by the Passenger Carriers Association, namely, the Pacific Greyhound Lines.

"The Pacific Greyhound Lines has for years been trying to eliminate all passenger carrier competition from the state highways. To accomplish their monopolistic desires they have resorted to action of persecution by causing arrests and prosecutions before the state courts and the State Railroad Commission.

"I, myself, with many others, have been arrested as many as four times in one month just because I was engaged in carrying passengers for compensation upon the highways of the state of California in sedan car or limousine.

"I was authorized by a license of the State Board of Equalization to carry on such a business under chapter 339, Statutes of 1933, which also compels me to pay a 3 per cent tax to the state on my gross income. A copy of the license is enclosed herewith.

"In the above mentioned decision, No. 29,936 of the California Railroad Commission, I have been found guilty and will be committed to the county jail for a period of five days and a $500 fine imposed upon me, in lieu of which I shall have to serve 100 days in the county jail.

"This is a great injustice and an outrage to a California citizen and a world war veteran, a man with a family trying to make an honest living, after being licensed by the state of California and then to be put in jail for what I am licensed to do, because a large corporation wants to monopolize the highways of this state.

"Do your part and keep the state highways free from monopoly. You or your friends may carry passengers on a share expense basis, and can be arrested just as I have been. Governor Merriam has requested all the facts in this case from the Railroad Commission, and is investigating.

"Trusting you will take action and help right this great wrong and keep other men from having this same thing happen to them, I am,

Yours respectfully,
Joseph A. Galik,
3636 16th street,
San Francisco, California."

horses owned by Louis Oneal and the drill and maneuvers of the beautifully costumed San Francisco Sheriff's Posse mounted on showy steeds, and the "fancy turnout" class, an event which show patrons of years past know better than to miss. These and many other events may be counted upon to bring about long lasting memories of this show, one of the best ever presented.

In addition, the show will have as star performers the greatest galaxy of equine talent ever seen. These tanbark celebrities have just concluded competition at Santa Barbara and have arrived in Atherton to compete in the San Mateo National. Home in time for the show are the twin daughters of Mrs. Roth, Lurline and Berenice, from a summer abroad, and the Wilson Meyer children, Geoffrey, George and Harriet, home from summer camps. All will take part in the show.

Two Killed As Planes Collide In Midair Over Los Angeles

Two persons were killed and two seriously injured recently when two planes, maneuvering for a landing at a Los Angeles airport, collided in midair. The dead were Pilot Chester Powers and his passenger, Jerry A. Wigley. The injured are Frank Jamison, pilot of the other ship, and his passenger, Joe Vierling. One plane was reduced to kindling, while wreckage of the other is shown in photo. The tangled planes landed in a back yard in a residential zone.

Non-Residents Get Increased Permits

Non-resident permits were issued to 108,717 cars that entered California during the first six months of 1937, the State Motor Vehicle Department, reported to Governor Frank F. Merriam in its regular monthly report.

This is the first time in the history of the State, the report said, that the 100,000 mark has been passed in a six months' period.

The number of permits issued to July was compared to the 87,376 permits issued in the similar period last year, representing an increase of 24.42 per cent.

Of the 108,717 certificates issued to foreign cars, more than seventy-eight per cent were handled by checking stations.

Fall Extension Classes Are Listed

Broad educational opportunities will be available to all northern Californians this fall, the University of California Extension Division announces. The division's catalog of fall classes, published August 2, lists 320 courses which will be open during the next three months in five bay region cities. Classes will be conducted by a staff of 108 instructors. Of these, 30 are members of the regular University of California faculty. Nine other universities, 12 business firms and 13 professions have also contributed to the division's teaching corps.

Courses listed in the new catalog include such widely varied subjects as Verse Writing, Re-inforced Concrete Design, Mental Hygiene, Radio, Photography, Literature and Foreign Languages. The only "entrance requirement" for extension work is ability to pursue the work with profit.

Although the majority of Extension classes are given in the bay region, special classes can be arranged for any community in the state.

SPINACH LIKED BY STUDENTS IT IS STATED

Survey Made By Welfare Federation Discloses Many Interesting Facts About Children

Girls like mathematics, potatoes and musical pictures; boys like history, potatoes and mystery movies. A majority of girls would like to be private secretaries; but boys, in the main, would be newspaper men.

These are the findings of a child preference survey made by the Children's Welfare Federation. Through questionnaires sent to the camps conducted by the 192 organizations, reaching 110,000 boys and girls, which make up the federation, an effort has been made to discover the tastes and talents of youngsters. From this information a more successful program of camp activities can be planned, it was said by Dr. Shirley W. Wynne, president of the federation.

In the field of sports, the survey showed that swimming was a leader among girls and baseball among boys. Adventure and mystery books were at the top of the reading list for both girls and boys.

When it comes to hobbies, boys go in for collecting stamps, autographs and "junk," in respective order. Thirty-one per cent of the girls had no hobby, according to the questionnaires, but with those who did dancing was the most popular.

To the question, "Do you play any musical instrument?" large percentages in both groups replied "no." This was the answer of 79 per cent of the girls and 69 per cent of the boys. The piano was the favorite instrument, with violin coming second, and, for the boys, the saxophone was third.

Spinach holds a surprisingly strong place in vegetable honors, followed closely by celery for girls and lettuce for boys.

Second choice in career ambitions is given to that of aviator by boys and actress by girls.

Bayshore American Legion Whist

American Legion Post No. 473 held a whist party, Friday evening of last week, with thirty tables of players, at the Bayshore Fire House, Geneva avenue and Schwerin street.

The door prize, a case of beer, was drawn by Mrs. Gonzalez, and the $5 box of groceries went to Mrs. Dufford.

First high score prize of $10 was awarded to J. Gustafson, and second prize of $2.50 to Alex McDonnell. Other valuable prizes were awarded to Mrs. J. Wright, A. Preni, Mrs. Ethel Jonas, W. Lowe, Frank O. Moore, Mrs. Gibbons, Mrs. Mitchell and S. Masry, besides some ten other prizes, all of which were donated by merchants in the surrounding communities.

F. E. Parker, commander, wishes to take this opportunity for Post No. 473 to thank all merchants, the Bayshore Fire Department and all participants for their wonderful support in helping make their first whist party such a success.

PAGEANT MARKS OUR INDUSTRIES AT STATE FAIR

Usual Other Days To Be Observed As In Former Years

A California Industries Pageant, featuring 10 major activities of the state, will be a principal attraction at the State Fair, September 3 to 12.

The fair board has approved a plan of Secretary-Manager Robert Muckler to name each of the ten days of the fair for an industry. The secretary declared:

"The California Industries Pageant affords an excellent means for informing Californians of the state's major industrial and educational pursuits. We expect the pageant to be an attractive part of the fair."

The emphasis to be placed on each activity will be accomplished through either a special program or dramatization.

Agriculture, bringing to California an annual approximate income of $600,000,000, is one of the prominent industries to be eulogized in the special ten day arrangement.

One of the special days will be devoted to churches, a new idea at the California State Fair but used by eastern state fairs.

The eight other days in the California Industries Pageant will be dedicated to Education, Livestock, Newspapers, Printing, Mining, Radio, Fruit, Motion Picture and Manufacturing.

President A. B. Miller of the fair board explained that although the ten days of pageantry will be devoted to industries, the plan does not alter the system of special days for organizations and cities.

Governor's Day, historically one of the big days of the fair, will be given more prominence than usual. This day, traditionally held on Thursday, has been changed to Friday this year in order to turn Thursday over to the colorful Admission Day celebration, September 9. Labor Day will be another outstanding event, as will also Press Day on September 4.

Aged Fallen Redwood Estimated 1500 Years

A giant California redwood tree, which is estimated to have pushed its first tender shoot above ground about 550 A. D., recently fell in the Sequoia National park in northern California.

Dr. D. T. MacDougal, botanist and director of the Carnegie Coastal Laboratory at Carmel and the Carnegie Desert Laboratory at Tucson, Ariz., studied the tree. He found that it had a height of 200 feet, that it weighed approximately 1,500,000 pounds and had a cubical content of 26,000 feet. The trunk, just above the root system, measured 18 feet in diameter. Dr. MacDougal estimated that it was between 1200 and 1500 years old. The result of his study will appear as an article in the December issue of the American Journal of Botany.

SYNOPSIS

Brooke Reyburn visits the office of Jed Stewart, a lawyer, to discuss the terms of an estate she has inherited from Mrs. Mary Amanda Dane. Unwittingly she overhears Jed talking to Mark Trent, nephew of Mrs. Dane who has been disinherited. Mrs. Dane had lived at Lookout House, a huge structure by the sea, built by her father and divided into two, for her and Mark's father. Brooke had been a fashion expert, and Mrs. Dane, a "shut-in," hearing her on the radio, had invited her to call and developed a deep affection for her. Mark discloses that Mrs. Dane had threatened to disinherit him if he married Lola, from whom he is now divorced. He says he does not trust Henri and Clotilde Jacques, Mrs. Dane's servants. He says he is not interested in an offer of Brooke's to share the estate with him. Leaving her department store job, Brooke refuses an offer to "go stepping" with Jerry Field, a carefree young man who wants to marry her. At a family conference she learns she must live at Lookout House alone, since Lucette, her younger sister who is taking her job, her brother, Sam, a young playwright, and her mother plan to stay in the city. Jed and Mark are astounded when they hear from Mrs. Gregory, a family friend, that she had witnessed a hitherto unknown will with Henri and Clotilde two weeks before Mrs. Dane died. Brooke had arrived just as she was leaving. Jed suggests that Mark open his part of Lookout House, get friendly with Brooke and try to find out about the will. Jed agrees to stay with him. Mark accepts Brooke's invitation for a family Thanksgiving dinner at Lookout. Mrs. Reyburn announces on Thanksgiving eve that she has been invited to England. Sam and Lucette decide to move in with Brooke and Sam plans to produce a new play locally. After the Thanksgiving dinner Brooke tells Mark that little of Mrs. Dane's silver collection is left. Jerry Field and his sister Daphne drop in and announce they will be neighbors for the winter. Sam adds them to the cast of his play. Later Inspector Harrison of the local police visits Mark and is informed about the missing will and silver. As Harrison leaves, Lola arrives. She announces that she and her new husband, Bert Hunt, have started a neighborhood filling station. Mark almost makes a break about the missing will and Brooke is suspicious.

"You're a darling, Brooke. I appreciate now the color, and the sense of 'God's in His Heaven, all's right with the world' you brought into Mary Amanda Dane's life. I had intended to start a boycott against you and your family here because you had cut Mark out of his inheritance, but he asked me to be nice to you. I adore that boy. I would do anything for him. He lived in a nightmare of humiliation with a wife who came home night after night barely able to keep her feet. Why, why can't women realize that it's their privilege to keep up the standards of decency? He stood by her, though, and held his head high, and wouldn't allow his soul to be warped by the experience."

Brooke left her town car in the garage when she reached Lookout House. She was thoughtfully drawing off her gloves as she approached the garden door of her house. A stream of light laid a golden path on leafless shrubs and graveled walk. A woman was at the door! A woman in a fox cape. Mrs. Hunt! Talking with Henri.

Brooke stepped into the purple shadow of a spruce. She could see and she could hear:

"If you keep a level head we can't lose, Henri."

The man's murmur was indistinct. He closed the door softly as the woman went down the steps. She flung a furtive look at the windows of the house before she vanished in the dusk.

"That seems to be that," Brooke said to herself, before she started around Mark Trent's house that she might enter her own front door unobserved by a possible watcher in the garden.

As she entered the living-room at Lookout House, she rang for Henri. The green parrot squawked, "Stop!" ruffled his feathers, and hopped up and down in his cage. She was standing near the fire, letter opener in hand, looking over the mail she had found on the desk when the butler entered.

"Did anyone call, Henri?"

"On the phone, Miss?"

"At the house."

Henri opened the door of the parrot's cage. Mr. Micawber hopped to his shoulder and began tweaking his ear.

"Never mind about the parrot, Henri. Answer my question."

"But I take him out like this for a walk around three times a day, Miss; the old madame wanted him to have a change of scene. Not a person called at this house. Were you expecting someone?"

"Yes, the lady who is to have charge of selling tickets for the play phoned that she might come this afternoon. Probably she couldn't make it. That's all."

Her eyes followed him as he left the room with the green bird muttering on his shoulder. Always she had distrusted the man of whom Mary Amanda Dane had been so fond. Why should he have lied to her about Mrs. Hunt's presence at the garden door of Lookout House? Because the woman was there to see him of course. With her thoughts still on Henri and his evasions, she slit one of the envelopes in her hand and drew out the letter it contained. All thought of the butler fled as she saw that the letterhead was that of the firm for which she had been fashion adviser.

Dear Miss Reyburn,—she read—Any chance of your wanting a job? We are opening a dress shop at Palm Beach under the name of Carston's Inc. Very swank, very expensive. Celeste will be business manager. We'd like you to be top mannequin—with a salary, of course, and percentage on the sales of the frocks you model. We'll put on a fashion show later in the season. Society girls as mannequins. We'll open this year January first. Don't say "No" until you think it over. Come in and we'll give you more details. Celeste and the directors are all for you on the job.

Yours truly—

Brooke's face flushed as she read the letter. Of course she couldn't accept—some girl who needed the money should have the chance—but it was thrilling to know that she was wanted. Palm Beach. All sunshine and fragrance and flowers. What a contrast to this stern and rockbound coast with the pound of surf, the wail of the siren, and the cries of gulls, to which she was anchored for the present.

The contents of the letter glowed in her mind as she dressed for the evening. It was heart-warming to know that her hard work had been appreciated.

Not until later, as, snuggled in a big chair before the fire in the living-room, she waited for Lucette and Sam to change for dinner, did the memory of Mrs. Hunt's presence at the garden door recur to her. Now it surged to the top of her mind. With unseeing eyes on the green parrot back in his cage, she thought of the woman's warning to her, of her threat to Mark Trent—it had been a threat, in spite of that sugary "darling." What had she meant? What object could Henri have had in denying her presence?

"How Perfectly Grand!"

Why should the remembrance of the low voice declaring: "If you keep a level head we can't lose, Henri," send icy prickles crawling up her spine and coasting down?

Brooke thoughtfully smoothed the lace of her dinner frock, lace the very shade of the high lights in her hair. If this were a movie, there might be a trick cupboard in the green paneling in which the silver had been hidden, but there was nothing so exciting here. She had been at Lookout House when the walls and trim were painted.

"Calling car 51 Car 51 Car 51!" The frenzied call brought Brooke to her feet, set her heart thumping madly. Then she laughed as the parrot with a squawk preened his green and yellow feathers. She made a disdainful face at the chuckling bird.

"Mr. Micawber, sometime when you yell like that I'll forget that I'm a perfect lady and wring your neck. Sam, did you teach the parrot that police radio call?" she demanded, as her brother entered the room.

His eyes twinkled behind the lenses of his horn-rimmed spectacles. He pulled a piece of cracker from the pocket of his blue coat.

"Sure, I taught him. I've been at work on that bird ever since I came. Here, stout fellow!"

The parrot twisted his head completely round, blinked lidless eyes, before he nipped at the reward which Sam had thrust through the bars of his square cage.

"That bird's a peach, Brooke. You can teach him anything if you try hard enough. Boy, I wish I had him in the play. He'd show some of the stiff how to speak their lines."

"Who's the biggest problem?"

"Daphne Field. She's pretty enough but dumb. She'll stop the show, all right, but not because she's an actress. Hers is a feed-part for the leading woman. She's one of those darn fool girls who go off their heads in a crisis—in real life, I mean, not in the play. Glad she's not in the lead. Laura Crane, who is, is good; she's got plenty on the ball."

"How is Jerry in his part?"

"Okay, but I don't like the man who is playing the male lead. He's a spotlight hog. I wish Mark Trent would take it. He's just the type and a natural. I think he's great—and—he's darn friendly, but—"

Sam leaned against the mantel and faced his sister. "Have you ever thought that he is not particularly keen about the Reyburn family?"

Brooke said thoughtfully:

"Would he be likely to be keen, as you express it, about a family which was spending money that he felt should be his? I think he has behaved decently."

"Who said he hadn't? I have a kind of feeling, that's all. He told Jed Stewart that we might take anything we liked from his house for stage setting. But all things considered, I'll be glad when the show is over; sometimes I think I've written a smash hit and sometimes that the play is just a lot of tripe. I don't care for one or two first-string critics to give me the low-down on it. Anyway, a manager who liked those two sketches I wrote for the Workshop is coming for the opening to give it the once-over, and he'll bring a New York producer."

"Really, Sam! How perfectly grand! We—"

"Hi! Soft pedal! Here comes Lucette. I don't want her to know that they'll be in front, it might rattle her."

There was the sound of running feet on the stairs, a gay voice singing. Lucette dashed into the room. Her black hair was silky; her thin frock was only a shade redder than her lips and cheeks and fingernails. She dropped to the rug in front of the fire, hugged her knees, and looked up at her sister.

"How soon do we eat, Brooke? I'm starving."

"Henri waits till he hears you tumble downstairs before he announces dinner. What kind of a day did you have?"

"Hectic. Every woman in the city apparently has gone sports-clothes minded. They've stopped boasting of the extreme age of their frocks and hats and have begun to spend real money. They are buying for themselves and for Christmas gifts in spite of the fact that prices are being stepped up. I should worry. I get a silver of commission on my sales. The girl who has taken your place had just one of those days, today. Madame Celeste was on the warpath. I brought Jerry Field down in the car. He was a gob of gloom when he came in and you were not here. By the way, who do you think runs that new filling-station in the white cottage?"

"Mark Trent's ex-wife and her husband!"

CHAPTER VI

Brooke stood before the fire in the softly lighted living-room at Lookout House. Three days had passed since she had received the letter offering her the Palm Beach position, since she had heard that the Hunts were the proprietors of the filling-station she had been patronizing. She had refused promptly the business offer and had dropped it from her mind, but she couldn't forget the other. Sometimes she wondered if she would ever think of anything else. Questions were everlastingly popping up. Had Lola Hunt gone to Mark Trent's house to tell him about it, or had he known already? Why later had the woman been talking so confidentially to Henri at the garden door of Lookout House? What had she meant by: "If you keep a level head we can't lose, Henri"? What was behind that snapped off "wit" of Mark Trent's?

Why was she spending a moment's thought on Mark Trent's problems? Hadn't she plenty of her own? She frowned at the empty gilt cage. Where was Mr. Micawber? When she had come in this afternoon, Henri had been wringing his hands. He had gone completely French as he chattered, but she had gathered from the jargon that when he had stepped out on the lawn with the parrot on his shoulder, the door had banged behind him and the frightened bird had flown away. It wasn't that she cared for the parrot, she detested him, but Mrs. Dane had loved him, and she felt as if she had broken faith with her benefactress.

"Wake up, sister!" Lucette prodded from the doorway. "Sam and I have been staring at you for three minutes, trying thought transference. Nothing doing. We couldn't penetrate your skull. You've been scowling as if addressing a hall full of women who refused to rally to your one-time battle-cry."

"Old age isn't necessary, it is nothing but a germ! Watch out that you don't pick it up!"

Brooke laughed. "I had no idea that the precepts of her elders made such an impression on our little sister, had you, Sam?"

"No. I—Where is Mr. Micawber?" Brooke told him.

"No kidding, what do you know about that! I'll bet Henri let him go."

"He wouldn't do that, Sam, though he should have known better than to go to the open door with him. Mrs. Dane wouldn't have the bird's wings clipped; of course he would fly when he got the chance. Henri takes all the care of him, thank heaven. I think he adores him, if he can adore anything. Curious. Mr. Micawber likes Henri and you; he doesn't try to conceal the fact that he dislikes Lucette and me. I'm really troubled about the parrot. He may be flying outside, and Mrs. Dane was so careful never to expose him to draughts. Who is calling, I wonder?" Brooke asked, as the butler passed in the hall on his way to the front door.

Lila will spend a lengthy vacation with her sister Mrs. Connors of Alvarado street. . . . rumors of engagements were flying fast and furious at Dick's lower last Tuesday night, but nary confirmation could I get out of all of them. . . . Sally Johnson had to have first aid, Saturday, for a badly turned arm, Captain Oliver Johnson (no relation) doing his duty by bandaging up her arm. . . . Mrs. Lettie Page went into town all by her lonesome last Tuesday to visit with Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Cupples. . . . saw Mary Jane Jewel Lewis talking arm in arm with Harry Lunn the other evening, now it looks like we have something there. . . . Norman Brown the senior, had to spend a session in bed last Tuesday, seems to have recuperated sufficiently now. . . . Let me warn you head of time—don't get into a ping pong game with the Lew Perry's, cause if you do you'll be taken down the line, as from all reports they carry a mean paddle. . . . Louis Eddy and Oliver Johnson furnished no fare for fair (some pun) at the first August meeting of the Brisbane Social Club, Wednesday, and as usual they had to have their wives do the honors at serving. . . . The Social Club is having new steps erected at the entrance, a long needed improvement. . . . Hal Drummond the tonsorial artist still continues to be a number one dancer among the grown ups and certainly can give the youngsters a few lessons in timing and coordination in the terpsichorean gyrations. . . . Frank DeLenzo is a proud papa of a cute little girl, Mrs. Frank is more than happy that it was a girl, I haven't heard Frank commit himself. . . . now who could the young fellow be that did a fast 100 yard dash down Visitation avenue the other evening to avoid getting a pop on the beeper. . . . Ruie Coffin's fiancé Pierre has been up from Burlingame pretty regularly the last week helping Ollie's brother in law repair his car. . . . Ollie Johnson is pretty busy these nights fixing up his newly acquired home on Alvarado street, he had Johnny Wilson helping him at it last Monday on the interior work. . . . Howard Homan is now in the employ of the Market Street Railway as a conductor, his pal Bill Wimper is the front end of the 21 line. . . . Howie Clark thinks he is in the wrong calling; after viewing the well job he did on my sidewalk he reckons he was cut out to be a stone or sidewalk mason or something. . . . Ruby Netzer is out of town visiting her grandmother Mrs. Page, now she can get plenty of exercise running her errands around town. . . . Elaine Fredricks is still nursing a sore tootie and is under the care of Doc Guardino. . . . Neva Johnson has been absent from town visiting with her auntie Violet Miller over on Fulson street. . . . Butch Madersbach has been nursing a plenty sore humb the last couple of days but yary a whimper he emitted, looks like he might have mistaken it for a yone and hit it with the kleeve. . . . don't forget the P. T. A. dance on the 7th at the school house, if you are from the south or any other section of the country you will get a bang out of the fun they have while wingin' to the music of Tal Arthurs

NEW FORM PLAY ON ELECTRICITY SOON TO START

Already Causing Comment And Excitement Among Local Critics

No play produced in San Francisco has ever caused more comment and flutter of excitement before its first performance than the coming Federal Theater production of "Power." It is scheduled for a four weeks run at the Alcazar Theater beginning Thursday, August 12.

"Power" dramatizes the origin and development of electricity in the United States and the role of power in modern society. It is the product of a group of New York newspaper men, who set about their task in much the same manner they would go about unearthing a first-page story. Hundreds of references including state and supreme court records relating to power company cases, hand books and manuals of power companies, financial reports, stock and bond set-ups and even the history of electricity from the development of the first theory down to the present were all given close study. It is the fourth of the so-called Living Newspaper plays, a new form of theater presentation that has taken hold in New York with such favor that the current production of "Power" there is still running after six months of capacity business and with reservations a month ahead.

The San Francisco production is directed by Peter Heiman, formerly Max Reinhardt's chief director, and has a cast of nearly 100 actors. The play is seen in nineteen scenes and more than 300 lights cues are required, employing the services of eight electricians. Practically every form of theatrical presentation is employed including the techniques of radio, motion pictures, cartoons, the lecture platform, stereopticon projection, music, masks and straight drama.

A Comfortable Chair

Two Bostonians were sitting together one day, when the first remarked: "What can I do to help mankind?"

His friend, for lack of a better idea, suggested, "Make a more comfortable chair. This one, although expensive, isn't a bit comfortable."

"All right, I'll make a cheaper and more comfortable chair," said the eager one. And looking around for a strong, cheap material, he came across rattan on the docks, discarded by ships from the Orient as they unwrapped and unloaded cargoes.

Thus the manufacture of rattan furniture had its inception. The industry now employs thousands of persons in many lands.

and his boys and don't forget they have a square dance too. . . . well you know what's coming. . . . finis.

BADEN CHAMP RUNNING DOG BRED IN COUNTY

Has Won More Stakes And Handicap Contests Than Any Other Dog At Track

Unquestioned champion at the Baden Kennel club for the meeting to date is a San Mateo county greyhound named Mike Andrew.

The big brindle dog, bred and raised in this county, defeated the contenders, Saturday of last week, in as fast a race as has been run at the meeting, winning easily in 32 seconds flat, equalling his own season record.

Here is what Mike Andrew has done in the fastest company at Baden:

Ran second in the Inaugural Trophy race, over the Futurity course.

Won the Peninsula Stake at five-sixteenths mile.

Ran third in the East Bay Stake at the same distance.

Won the San Francisco Stake, a five dog match at five-sixteenths of a mile.

Won the Industrial City Special, also at five-sixteenths.

Saturday the Colma dog was pitted against his arch rival, Doctor Vance, his kennel mate, Andrew's Pride, Dreamy Dick, Gay Kashmir, Blue Money, Big Machine and all of the other "greats" assembled at the South San Francisco track. He sprinted to an early lead and was unchallenged for the entire route.

Mike Andrew's performance stands as a tribute to the ability of California breeders to produce swift racing stock, for Mike Andrew is in all probability the fastest five-sixteenths mile dog on the coast today.

to Mr. and Mrs. Nails of Solano street on August 2.

We wish the Burns brothers much success in their new ventures. Tiny is located at Jack's Service Station and Bob at the old 101 building. Both are fine fellows.

That new sign across the street indicates that it won't be long now before we see a new church building going up.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Booth and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Burns spent the weekend at Santa Cruz.

Mr. and Mrs. Burt Lendo spent the weekend at Stockton visiting his brother.

Mrs. Lendo gave a birthday party to little two year old Marilyn DeLong. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank DeLong of Mariposa street.

Freddie Leonard and Flash Gordon of the United States Navy visited the Frederick family this past Sunday.
